employment

Loyola University Chicago, Department of English

Edward Surtz, S.J. Associate Professor, August 2016–

Yale University, Department of English

Assistant Professor, July 2009–June 2016

education

University of Pennsylvania. Ph.D. in English Literature, May 2009.

Non-degree research student at King's College, University of London, 2006/7.

Washington University in St. Louis. B.A. in English Literature, summa cum laude, May 2002.

Study at Keble College, Oxford University, 2000/1.

research area

I study medieval English poetry, focusing language, form, and textual transmission. I also study aspects of medieval literary education and Latin literary culture. Current projects include an essay on Middle English lyric; an essay on extra-diegetic address in Piers Plowman; an edition of New Haven, Beinecke Library, Takamiya MS 23 for the Piers Plowman Electronic Archive (with James Eric Ensley); and studies of two English translations of the Consolation of Philosophy: John Walton's versification (c. 1410), and George Colvile's 1556 prose rendering.
